UNIQUE

SUCCESS IN LIFE IS ABOUT BECOMING WHO YOU REALLY ARE.

The Idea

Unique. is a show without words for the entire family.

What happens when you don't accept yourself as you are, you think you are not enough and you feel judged by others?

Unique tells the story of an awkward office worker, both comic and poetic character, dissatisfied with his job and his life, and the journey he undertakes towards his validation, recognition and self-esteem.

It is an encounter with the fears of the past, bringing light to the present and manifesting the authenticity of our unique Self.

An invitation to let our potentialities shine
and learn from our awkwardness.
Permission to accept ourselves, just as we are, with all the nuances of our personality.

Synopsis

Martinsky, a clumsy office worker who continually gets into trouble, lives between the opposite poles of his daily reality and the dream of being a successful and triumphant artist.

The boredom generated by his routine leads him to play with his work elements to transport himself to fantasy worlds, transforming his office into a circus where he can show his skills to the public, and thus feel full of courage and self-esteem.

This dreamlike reality is diminished when the ghosts of the past, his fears and limiting thoughts emerge and drag him back to the everyday reality of his office, and the frustration that this generates.

As the show unfolds, Martinsky discovers that appreciation and recognition come not when he lives within his fantasy world based on an idealised image of what he would like to be, but when he allows himself to be exactly as he is, with all his array of qualities and particularities.

On Stage

Just as Martinsky resignifies himself through his experiences, so do his costumes and office items.

The trench coat, for example, represents another character on stage, establishing an emotional link with the protagonist.

The same happens with the work objects, demystifying a large part of the props and giving a new value and personality to each element.

And on the other side, an office filing cabinet becomes a screen for audiovisual projections, bringing the poetic and magical content of the show. It represents a portal to the character's imagination and the place where his childhood memories are archived.

About

The Company Martín Melinsky was created in 2020 with its first show Unique, as a result of many years of experience in Clown and Gestural/Physical/ Theatre as the actor, clown, director and teacher.

Martín Melinsky trained as a dramatic actor at the Escuela Municipal de Arte Dramático in Buenos Aires. His interest in comedy and establishing closer contact with the audience led him to discover the 'World of Clown', training with international masters such as Eric de Bont, Philippe Gaulier, and Michelle Dellaire among others.

Together with his colleagues, Martin launched the theatre company Clownidoscopio in Ibiza and participated as an actor in several of their shows.

He collaborates with the Vicente Ferrer Foundation as a hospital artist and in educational centres in Anantapur, India.

Directed a show Mamushkas, ¿Cómo te lo explico?, by the Barcelona artist Pablo Vega.

He collaborates actively with the association Manicomicos from Coruña (creating, directing and performing).

Martin currently teaches clown workshops and is constantly working on his new projects.
